

COVID-19

HEALTH SAFETY

WORKPLACE SAFETY

Returning to Work in a COVID-19 World

Wednesday
August 18, 2021
10:00 am - 11:30 am
On-line via Zoom

Never in history has health and safety been the #1 topic around the world at dinner tables, schools, and at work! There are many opinions, ideas, and habits gained from personal experiences. We'll cut back to basics (the law), pick up the pieces, and put the health and safety puzzle together in a practical way. A big consideration is the reality of many people returning to a physical workplace after a long break and what we need to be thinking about to keep everyone safe.

This session will address:

- COVID-19 and the Workplace: what you need to know
- Balancing the OHS (Occupational Health and Safety Act) and COVID re-opening regulations
- Volunteers, workers, and the public under Ontario's workplace safety law
- Protective measures: PPE and more
- When 'social' health and safety habits meet the workplace
- Questions & Answers

Presenter:

SUE BOYCHUK is widely recognized as an expert in workplace safety - especially for new, young volunteers, and vulnerable workers. She brings over 30 years of extensive and diverse experience including practical workplace safety experience as a Ministry of Labour safety inspector, trainer, industrial safety specialist, manager, and prevention and policy expert. Sue provides lively and practical information sessions to help be safe at work. www.SueBoychuk.com

Fee: $15 Members; $25 Non-Members

Limited spots. REGISTRATION REQUIRED at cdhalton.ca/events

Please register by Monday August 16. Zoom virtual event link will be sent to the email provided in the registration, one day before the workshop.

Any questions? Call 1 (855) 395-8807 ext. 2 or email hejohnson@cdhalton.ca